

“Visions of Lewis and Clark” is a collection of artist-created kites inspired by the Lewis and Clark Expedition. More than 30 kites are on display; each one represents a unique aspect from the journey of the Expedition. Artists included imagery of people, places, plants, animals and events that the Corps of Discovery encountered on their journey.

Kites from Visions of Lewis & Clark will be on display in various locations in Missoula County. (See inside for details.)

The exhibition was organized by Terry Zee Lee of SkyWindWorld, Inc. in Billings, Montana and is supported by a grant from the Lewis & Clark Trail Alliance.

“I am continually amazed at how kites can be used as an art medium, reflecting not only color, shape and design, but also interpreting history. They’ve been enjoyed by millions of visitors while on display inside and can be taken outside, into their natural element, and flown. They take on a radiance that only appears when they are flying high in the sky with the sun shining through them.” - Terry Zee Lee
